DIRECTOR NAMED TO INSTITUTE FOR COURT MANAGEMENT COMMITTEE

Chief Judge Victoria A. Rossetti is proud to announce that Marci Jumisko, Director of Administrative Services for the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit, has been asked to serve on the Phase II Education Design Committee for the National Center for State Courts' Institute for Court Management (ICM). This committee, comprised of court leaders from around the country, has been charged with reviewing the curriculum for the three-week in-residence portion of ICM's Court Executive Development Program (CEDP). ICM's educational programs are continuously evolving to meet the needs of courts and serve as the premier provider of services that improve the administration of justice, not only across the United States, but worldwide. Marci completed the residency phase of the CEDP last month and will provide the committee with a recent participant's perspective.

Chief Judge Rossetti stated, "once again our staff continues to be called upon to assist in the development of the administration of justice across the United States and the world." "Marci is one of our exemplary leaders, and it is wonderful that she has been called upon to assist in this very worthwhile effort."
